

FORMER ASSOCIATE MEMBERS AND SCIENCE/CONSERVATION ADVISERS

- Pat Matyot, independent entomologist, (research on Seychelles orthopteroids and Field guide of Seychelles grasshoppers and crickets) (2014-2015). Expert in Seychelles invertebrate fauna.
- Dr. Axel Hochkirch, Department of Biogeography, University of Trier, Germany (research on Seychelles orthoptera and Field guide of Seychelles grasshoppers and crickets) (2014-2017). Expert in orthoptera and other insects.
- Dr. James Russell, Department of Statistics, University of Auckland, New Zealand (rat densities on Mahé and other islands; phylogeny of rats in the western Indian Ocean) (2015-2016). Rodent specialist and statistician.
- Dr. Jeanne Mortimer, Department of Biology, University of Florida, USA (Technical support to monitoring and conservation of turtles on Ste Anne Island) (2015-2018). Chelonian and seagrass expert.
- Dr. Laura Blamey, The Commonwealth Scientific and Industrial Research Organisation (CSIRO), Canberra Australia (Sensitivity of key marine species in Seychelles to climate change using a trait-based approach) (2017-2018). Marine life expert.
- Lindsay Chong Seng, BSc in Ecology, University College of Wales, Aberyswiith. Seychelles herpetologist and botanist. Chair Plant Conservation Action Group.
- Dr. Jérémy KISZKA,